Paridhi Jaipuria

As Lakme Fashion Week is one of the best platforms in India for an emerging designer to showcase their talent, I am quite grateful for this opportunity. LFW for sure is going to mark as a building block to making my career and getting the most creative exposure in the country. And as far as being a fashion designer is concerned, I guess it's the whole process where you just get a small idea, you work on it and bring it to life is very exhilarating. Working with Tarun Tahiliani sure was an exhilarating moment for me as along with designing, punctuality and discipline is something that I learnt from him personally. And remember, when you get stuck creatively, have a cup of Coffee or sometimes a couple of glasses of wine. Also, in this industry, it's all about getting the right inspiration and setting your priorities straight. And remember, at the end all you need to do is push yourself to the limit and you never know when you're on this side, sharing your story with the world.
